NICOA introduces TribalFootprints.org

A Resource Directory for American Indian and Alaska Native (AI/AN) Elders

As a Community Service Provider, you may be well aware of disparities in access to services and resources among AI/AN Elders. However, you may not be aware that there is a free online directory being developed with localized listings of health and social services and resources for AI/AN Elders across Indian Country.

The National Indian Council on Aging (NICOA), a non-profit organization working to advocate for AI/AN Elders, is cooperating with all federally-recognized tribes, pueblos, bands, and nations to create this friendly and easy to use website. It allows Elders, their families and caregivers, as well as community service providers to quickly find the following:

- Caregiver Services
- Economic Wellbeing Resources
- Food & Nutrition Services
- Health Service Providers
- Housing
- In-Home Services
- Long-Term Care & Support Services
- Elder Centers -Title VI
- Transportation

This directory is free and does not require registration of any kind. It can be conveniently accessed from computers, smartphones or tablets at any time.

Please inform the AI/AN Elders you serve about this new resource and the quick "how to" guide on the reverse to help them easily navigate the directory.

Use this directory to better understand the resources available for AI/ANs in the community you serve.
